Iroquois Indians Inventions & Use of the Environment

Monday, January 15th from 9:30 am to 12:00 noon

We will examine and study the large variety of Mohawk and Iroquois artifacts in our collections and learn and discuss the many ways local Native Americans used the environment and were the first ultimate recyclers. We will also learn about the many Native American inventions that have helped our daily lives. All participants will make beaded necklaces and weave baskets just like the Mohawk Indians did right here in our region!
